RUN 2170 HARE FINGERS

EDITORIAL

Bugsy is off for a holiday and just dumped the Newsletter in my lap! I am asking myself, why the real Hash Scribe [One Hump, the dependable Hash Scribe] isn't doing the Newsletter? Clearly I'm missing something here! Whilst he may not be doing the newsletter, the offices of Blake have been swamped with a deluge of pornography – I know I'm sounding like a broken record, but Blake remains a porn free zone.

Run images were acquired from sources close to Bugsy, and Blake unreservedly apologizes for the low definition.

This piece of information was received from "The Dependable Hash Scribe". What does it mean? Is Dunoim refusing to accept emails or phone calls? If so why? Are we expected to sit around tapping away at mobile phones like a group of pubescent teenage tossers? Please explain!

HASH Footy Tipping

Round 18 winner was Bendover with six winning teams and won a six pack! He also won for the first time last week. No points were given to Gold Coast or West Coast as neither team won!
Only Hashers to pick Richmond to win was Hash Pash and Electric Eric as both had away teams.

Goblet is in the lead with a score of 111, followed by Bugsy and Shelia both with 110 each. Then Abba and Two Bob both with 108 each.
Keep sending your tips in, even the Hasher that keeps sending his shopping list for BWS instead of GWS!

THE RUN

Run 2170 4/8/2015 Fingers' House, Rowland Crescent, Summerhill

Fingers decided that something new was required and so he gave out the instructions. "I have gone around the suburb randomly selecting people's houses, and have left Run instructions in their meter boxes!" Sheila was seen to raise a disparaging eyebrow. You can take a man out of the Hydro but you can't take the Hydro out of a man. The first location was Bugsy's house. The Pack began to argue which would be the best way to go and everybody settled on the long way—which wasn't too far. Bugsy's drive was surprisingly devoid of junk and the meter box was easily located. The instruction was OnOn to Delly's house. Surprisingly Delly was nowhere to be seen! So off on a reasonable stroll to Delly's with the Pack splitting in two, each Pack knowing the best way. Scary and myself decided to follow Bendovers' Pack, as Bendover knows every short cut in town. The instructions at Delly's said OnOn to Spydery's house, and another argument developed as to the best way. I couldn't be bothered arguing, I just followed Bendover. Another reasonable stroll which took advantage of Western Suburbs Park track. When we emerged from the Park and continued along Kerry Court the other Pack was encountered. It was at this stage that we were informed of a rift between the Front Runners and the other Pack—they were not talking! The Front Runners were now refusing to disclose the contents of Spydery's meter box. Well, Wank On!

A unanimous decision was to dispatch Electric Eric over to Spydery's and get the information. Electric Eric called OnOn to 2Bobs house which was a far greater distance than the previous sections of the Run. Naturally Bendover knew the best way. So it was off to Willow Lane and left onto the water run-off track where the Pack again split, with Bendovers' Pack following the track and the other half staying in the streets. After crossing Mt Leslie Road Shrek and Bendover led a cracking pace to Victoria Square where Blakey found himself hopelessly lost until we turned into the very familiar alley and play area leading to Wenlock Way. 2Bobs' just ahead. The On Home was found in 2Bobs' meter box. Electric Eric was so excited he used his phone camera to take images of it. All decided to follow the Main Road back to Mount Leslie Road, then back around the water run-off track and in via Havelock Street and Walnut Grove. Arriving back at the venue I was surprised to see Delly and 2Bob already on their 5th beer. Delly wouldn't have looked in his meter box before the Run - he just wouldn't do that. 2Bob wouldn't have looked in his meter box before the Run. 2Bob wouldn't do that. I guess they just sprinted round the Trail.

However I was truly shocked to see Bugsy, who's been picking up bad habits down at Chardonnay, drive around the Trail! [And he didn't even get a skoll for it!!!] Maybe Delly, who was running so hard, didn't notice— mmmmmmm!

Back at the venue, Fingers had the fire pot blazing and had warmed up the shed. Fingers has a well earned reputation for rain, but on this occasion he must have used that royal telephone to hold off the rain till all Hashers were in. When it rained the warm shed was popular.

Those Hashers who bothered to follow the whole Trail were richly rewarded with something different, which turned into a great Run. So to my assessment of the night - A great Run, a warm and dry venue, and the beer was cold and pouring correctly - can't ask for more than that - a top show.
