LAUNCESTON HASH HOUSE HARRIERS A DRINKING CLUB WITH A RUNNING PROBLEM

RUN No 2220 4 Erica Crt. Summerhill Hare: Delly

LH3 Hash Weekly Bull Shit -

Run report for run 2220 – Deli's run with many checks

On entering Deli's entertainment area one could not help but notice the beautifully nurtured eucalyptus saplings that give the yard the ambience of the South West Tasmanian rain forest.

Gunn's should have based their pulp mill business case on the many cubits and years of harvesting available in this undisclosed coup. Under these shadowy limbs ON ON was called up the street and through the lane-way following the trail of lime through the reserve and back out into suburbia. A check – where is Sprocket to spread out and search? Not here; now what will we do? Trying to narrow down possibilities Bugsy commented that he never saw the trail on his way to Deli's – observant hashers had already noted that Bugsy drove the gruelling 400 metres to Deli's so obviously he would see sweet FA. Unfortunately I cannot document where all checks were on the run as they were so numerous and would nearly outscore the number of arrows on the trail. Speaking of the trail - just to be sure we could find the trail of lime Deli was kind enough to draw a chalk arrow pointing to the powdery deposits – it's a first for me in over 30 years. Anyway we found our way around to Willow Lane or was it Morris

Street or am I confusing Deli's run with Fingers's run or am I clairvoyant and confusing it with Electric Eric next weeks run?? In this part of the city all the streets and the houses look the same and there are no visible landmarks of significance. ESSENDON Street does stand out though especially for Thumbs – he managed to find the trail around the block back onto itself and if he hadn't heard the horn he would still be there now doing blockies. Oops that's a lie – no-one hears the horn. The run circumnavigated Stretch's residence several times and somewhere after another few blobs with faint arrows and ten checks later the pack went up one of those tracks where schoolgirls lose their virginity and popped out onto a little cul-de-sac. The On Home on the corner of this unnamed dead end and

Michael Street left a reasonable distance to return to the Tarkine Forest. Next week we do it all again!

ON ON:

The Hashers return to Dellys and are amazed that the 25 metre high Eucalyptus citriodora is still standing. The ground in Summerdale is saturated and the tree is leaning like that tower in Pisa, which one will topple first. There is no rain tonight and it is reasonably warm for this time of year. This does not deter Tyles from raiding Delly's wood shed to stoke up the fire pot enough to warm up all of Erica Court.

The Lip, once again, pulled off a joke that was written on the wall of Noah's Ark. Tiles had a joke too about Eddie, Swany and 60 000 Collingwood supporters but he couldn't be bothered telling it so he wrote it down and handed it around so as not to offend our club's Collingwood supporters (because they can't read). Abba finishes the Lip session with a joke spoken in Swenglish, unfortunately the punch line got lost in the translation.

On Downs:

Deli was first to scull for a well marked and interesting run.

Bugsy lives so close that the Commodore never made it out of second gear. He was heard to mutter too far to walk home after a few beers.

Raffle:

Meat Tray night so the raffle was well anticipated. Tiles won a special excavator cleaning kit, Rickshaw a genuine bottle of wine (a social elevation from that goon bag he brings every Tuesday), Scary won his favourite Guinness beer and Blakey won the meat tray. Sprocket may get fed this week?
