Weekly Bull Shit -

Run report for run 2241 Scary Ball Buster

Making the most of the rare summer like weather Scary has gone bush. Over the back boundary and up the very same hill that two weeks before we had come down on one of the best runs to date. As if getting to the On-On up the steep incline of his driveway wasn't enough – it was obvious by observing Goblet that this hill is punishing to old legs. The on home and obligatory bell end from Sheila's run was still clearly visible as the pack headed on past the tunnel surge tank and down to the Pitt Avenue check. Quite a time was spent dithering as hashers covered all points of the compass looking for the continuation of the trail. It took Fingers two attempts to find the new arrow pointing upward on a skinny mountain bike trail upstream of the tunnel removable section. There would be no running up this cliff as Boong was slowing the way as he tentatively checked for snakes. Speaking of Boong; he was spotted with his "male friend" at the cinema waiting to enter a lovee dovee movie – wonder how that went? and what sort of snakes were involved? At the end of the cliff trail was another check; only two choices – Fingers went left, Sheila chose right, Boong stayed put and kept an eye out for snakes and Buggy took even more photos. On-on to the right and by this time the remaining pack had caught up and followed, leaving Fingers outcast to deal with his own trail. The trail crossed Reatta Road to what looked like a massive solar power station; this is WayFM and they are harvesting Gods gift, the Sun, into electrical energy to run the radio station and power the transmitter enabling the good word to be spread to the minions. Being good Christian folk no one was struck down by mighty lightning bolts but Derbs and Buggy were witnessed breaking into a speedy gait exiting the area and heading towards the Archery Club. There was more traversing of the power line easement before the ON HOME was discovered near Reatta Road. Fingers' own trail had led directly to this spot resulting in more valuable drinking time added to his night however some sludge arses had even more drinking time after balking the tunnel removable section hill altogether. A good run set by Scary – hopefully a lesson to others of what a summer run is all about.

ON ON:

Back at the on-on Scary had the fire roaring after harvested some on site blackberry cane and gorse logs. Blakey again acted as if he had been on the run and then declared that "unlike some he has a real job that prevents him from participating". I'm not sure whether that is because of time constraints or if sitting on his arse all day gives him a sore vagina? Any way he's usually a useful Hash Lip regardless that he has no jokes again.

Derbs has bought along a large box of worthless landline phones to give away, Goblet says it must be cheaper to give them away than take them to the tip recycling depot, after he scores the best two hand-sets from the mass of tangled cords

Joke of the Week

Little Mary Margaret was not the best student in Catholic School, usually she slept through the class.

One day her teacher, a Nun, called on her while she was sleeping. "Tell me Mary Margaret, who created the universe?"

When Mary Margaret didn't stir, little Johnny who was her friend sitting behind her, took his pencil and jabbed her in the rear.

"God Almighty!" shouted Mary Margaret. The Nun said, "Very good" and continued teaching her class.

A little later the Nun asked Mary Margaret, Who is our Lord and Savior?"

But Mary didn't stir from her slumber.

Once again, Johnny came to her rescue and stuck Mary Margaret in the rear.

"Jesus Christ!!!" shouted Mary Margaret, and the Nun once again said, "Very good," and Mary Margaret fell back asleep.

The Nun asked her a third question..."What did Eve say to Adam after she had her twenty-third child?"

Again, Johnny came to the rescue.

This time Mary Margaret jumped up and shouted, "If you stick that damn thing in me one more time, I'll break it in half!"

The nun fainted....
